

RUSH TROOPS TO ULSTER TO REPLACE REGIMENTS LEFT WITHOUT OFFICERS

BRITISH WAR DEPARTMENT ACTS QUICKLY IN EFFORT TO PREVENT OUTBREAK.

MAY FILL VACANCIES

Efforts Made to Replace All Officers Who Resigned, While Cabinet Leaders Talk Compromise Plans.

London, March 21.—The outstanding feature of the news from Ireland today was the disaffection among the officers of the regular army under orders to proceed to Ulster with their regiments.

The actual number of resignations among them still was problematical, but that it was considerable was evident from the earnest consultations of cabinet ministers regarding the best means of counteracting the movement. The actual effect of this disaffection is the more disconcerting to the military authorities since the army is already seriously short of commissioned officers.

Threats of a crisis in the army if a movement of regular troops was undertaken against Ulster had long been current and in some quarters it is believed that the sudden marching of a large number of troops was ordered that the military authorities might gather an idea as to how widespread the threatened disaffection was.

Send All New Troops.

Immediately after Col. Seely, the secretary of state for war, had been in audience with King George of Buckingham palace this morning, Colonel Seely summoned a meeting of the army council which took the necessary steps to replace officers who had resigned.

According to reports, however, the number of vacancies is rapidly increasing and it seems possible that all the regular regiments which had been serving in Ulster may have to be withdrawn and replaced by fresh troops as both men and officers have openly expressed their disinclination to take the offensive against men with whom they have been fraternizing.

This momentary shifting of the immediate crisis from Ulster to the army may give the peace-makers their desired opening.

The return of Arthur J. Balfour, former minister of the interior, has given heart to the advocates of a compromise. He and Premier Asquith have served long years side by side in the political field and understand and appreciate one another.

Possibility of Compromise.

Premier Asquith and Andrew Bonar Law, the official spokesman of the opposition in the House of Commons, have given heart to the advocates of a compromise. He and Premier Asquith have served long years side by side in the political field and understand and appreciate one another.

It was thought in many quarters to-day that if the government could consent to give the critics of Ulster perpetual local opinion on the question of home rule, instead of compelling them to come under the Dublin parliament at the end of six years, a way out of the present difficulty would be found.

The nationalists always have contended that the Ulster men would be glad to join the home rule scheme once it had been demonstrated that their fears of unfair treatment were unfounded.

King George himself is taking an active part in the negotiations. He is not confining his conferences to members of the cabinet, but has been in communication with Arthur J. Balfour, former minister of the interior, and Lord Roberts after he had seen the secretary of state for war.

Precautionary Measures.

An official communication issued this afternoon says: "The recent movement of troops in Ulster are purely precautionary with the object of giving adequate protection to the lives and property of the people and other government property against possible risk."

It adds: "There has not been and is not now any intention to move troops into Ulster except for these and like purposes."

Field Marshal Sir John French, chief of the imperial general staff, arrived in London today in connection with the resignation of officers from the regular army, owing to their refusal to march against the Ulsterists in Ulster.

Nearly all the officers of the fourth Queen's Own Hussars, stationed at the Curragh camps, are said to have handed in their commission and their placards have been filed.

PLAN STEAMSHIP LINE FROM CHINA TO COAST FOR IMPORTING FOOD

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

San Francisco, Cal., March 21.—A refrigerated steamship line to Northern China to provide cheaper beef, butter and eggs for the Pacific Coast was the plan under consideration today by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce. Negotiations with this end in view already have been started by a committee of wealthy business men appointed by the organization. The present plan is to import eggs from the northern parts of China. These eggs, it was said, do not come in for the criticism recently made on eggs brought to California ports from the southern parts of the country. Chamber of Commerce officials declare the northern China eggs average from four to six to the pound and are raised under the best sanitary conditions.

The plan also provides for importing beef from cattle raised in the provinces of Honan and Szechuan, which contain many hundreds of miles of the finest pasture. The Russians, it is said, prefer this beef to the Australian variety and it is probable according to reports, that the United States troops in the Philippines will be coming from this source during the coming year. Butter of the best quality is said also may be secured from the Honan and Szechuan provinces. A Tientsin firm keeps the refrigerating steamer Guthrie plying constantly between that port and Vladivostok with produce.

JONES RESOLUTION GOES TO COMMITTEE

Much Discussed Measure Calling for Information on Tolls Question is Before Relations Committee.

Washington, March 21.—Senator Jones' much discussed resolution calling on President Wilson for information of what nation had protested against the Panama tolls exemption was referred to the foreign relations committee after Senator O'Gorman and his author had withdrawn objections.

Senator Hoke Smith and Senator Jones clashed when the latter wanted the clerk to read a newspaper story saying the president wanted a limit on Panama tolls. Jones' resolution was blocked by Smith, but Senator Jones, waiting until the bill on the calendar had been called up, read the article which sought to show that the president had told members of the house that debate on the bill could be limited to fifteen hours.

"I don't believe the president made any such suggestion," said Senator Jones, "and I see in almost every newspaper every day" Senator Jones continued, "reports of senators or representatives going to the president to ask whether this or that bill suits him, or this or that amendment is satisfactory to him. Whether these reports are correct I do not know, but they occur so frequently that there must be some foundation for them."

SAYS GOVERNMENT IS BECOMING COMPLEX

Winfield Jones States That Wilson Administration is Getting into a Mess.

Washington, D. C., March 21.—It is evident to impartial observers of events in Washington that the Democratic administration is getting into a mess, and more a mess of governing, and that President Wilson and his advisers are floundering deeper and deeper in the mire of domestic and foreign complications, especially the latter.

Mexico and Panama tolls are the two most important questions now before Congress. The President's attitude upon both these questions has unquestionably impaired the prestige of the administration. Attention is being directed to the fact that nearly every administration for the first year meets with popular favor. It is a new regime. Members of Congress belonging to the party in power know that the party is in power because patronage is being distributed and constituents are hungry. But a change is taking place. Democratic members of Congress are becoming restive. They are becoming impatient of the administration's repeated attempts to force his views upon Congress. While members may be induced to support an administration policy they rebel when asked to reverse themselves as the president is doing in the case of the Panama tolls. In this particular instance they are asked to violate a plank of the democratic platform. While, with the overwhelming democratic majority repeal will be forced through, the administration will be weakened by its attitude.

The Mexican situation is becoming more involved daily. The question is beginning to be discussed in congress. It is no longer possible to disguise the situation. Senator Fall of New Mexico, in a recent speech in the senate, gave a long list of Americans killed or wounded in Mexico. He also directed attention to the fact that on July 28, 1913, he wrote Secretary Bryan a letter in which he informed the official that he had received a list of 234 men, 391 women and 1286 children who had been driven across the border during the present trouble. This was in answer to a statement of Bryan that Americans who were in Mexico were not Americans, but mere representatives of corporations who went there for the purpose of exploiting the people. The reply of Mr. Bryan was that the Americans who were in Mexico were not Americans, but mere representatives of corporations who went there for the purpose of exploiting the people. The secretary of state acknowledged the receipt of the letter and the only comment he made was, "I have the honor to be, Sir, your obedient servant."

The administration appears to have no real Mexican policy except to oust Huerta. A mistake was made in Mexico at the outset and now in an effort to create the state of affairs from its difficulties we are becoming involved in foreign complications. Huerta is freely made in Washington that Huerta will be president of Mexico and that Wilson is not president of the United States.

One of the strongest and most sensational reports made to congress was that filed by Congressman Knowland of California in submitting the minority views from the committee on interstate and foreign commerce, in protest against the surrender of American rights to Panama.

"I vigorously protest," declared the California representative, "against the attempt to force the congress of the United States to give to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, thus surrendering for all future time, rights vitally affecting this nation commercially, strategically and politically. The following paragraph of the report has been particularly disturbing to the administration:

"A situation unparalleled and unprecedented in history now confronts this nation. The custodian of our rights, our agent in dealing with foreign affairs, advocates the case of Great Britain. We are left without a spokesman. With no attempt to settle through diplomatic channels, we are being asked to look to the reference of this vital question to arbitration, unconditional and complete surrender is urged because 'I shall not know how to deal with other nations of even greater delicacy and candor, unless you do not grant it to me.'"

In this blundering foreign policy Secretary Bryan has recently made the worst mistake yet made by the United States. With Bryan Chautauqua troubadour, who shows the profound lack of knowledge of statesmanship by the secretary of state, Japan has established the right to colonize in Mexico with the consent of the United States.

That was the view which was expressed at the Japanese embassy following the announcement of Bryan that Japanese colonists might pass from Juarez to Calexico with the approval of this country.

Especially significant was the statement of the Japanese ambassador.

NEW YORK CLUB MAN TRIED ON MANN ACT

Parker Whitney On Trial at San Francisco Charged With White Slavery—Pleads Not Guilty.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

San Francisco, March 21.—Charged with white slavery in connection with his alleged transporting of Miss Genevieve Hannan from one state to another for immoral purposes, Parker Whitney, wealthy New York club man and society man, today went to trial before Judge Dooling in the federal court here. Whitney's last hearing was for the defense of the indictment against his client on the ground that it did not state the method Whitney was alleged to have used. The motion was overruled and today set for the trial.

Miss Hannan, according to the prosecution, formerly lived at one of the most exclusive New York hotels, and when Whitney in high social circles. She is said to have been rescued by today's court action through jealousy over Whitney's alleged attentions towards another woman. Whitney again today pleaded not guilty and stated he is confident of a speedy acquittal.

MUNICIPAL UNDERTAKER TO FIGHT "HIGH DYING" COSTS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Cleveland, March 21.—The high cost of dying is threatened with municipal move becomes reality. The municipal undertaker, Law Director Stockwell is advocating the project. It is not the rich he hopes to aid. He desires to protect the poor from extortionate funeral charges and believes a city undertaker is the only solution of the problem.

"In many cases funeral expenses are twice the amount they should be," says Stockwell. "The persons who are particularly the poor, are the victims of the undertaker. The city should furnish protection to the public by standing ready to conduct funerals at figures approximately the actual cost."

If casket makers and dealers in undertaker's supplies ally themselves with the undertakers to balk the plan, Stockwell would have the city make its supplies at the Warrensville city farm.

GERMAN ASTRONOMERS TO PHOTOGRAPH ECLIPSE OF MOON FROM ARCTIC ISLE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, March 21.—German astronomers already planning a live interest in a total eclipse of the sun that occurs August 21. The city of Hamburg is fitting out an expedition at its own expense, and Prussia will give assistance to an expedition headed by Prof. Mittelmeyer of the Geological Institute in Charlottenburg. A number of German astronomers will attach themselves to the American expedition. Prof. Mittelmeyer's purpose is to make photographs of the eclipse of making photographs of the eclipse will go to the island of Alston, far up on the coast of Norway, where the path of totality first touches the European Continent. The Hamburg expedition will make its observations in Russia. It is understood that the Russian astronomers are making extensive preparations for facilitating the work of the American and other foreign expeditions by having the astronomer make calculations worked out for each important point in the path of totality.

STOP PUBLIC ADMITTANCE TO CRIMINAL MUSEUM AS RELICS ARE GREWSOME

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, March 21.—Because it was becoming as great an attraction for the morbid as the Paris morgue, the criminal museum of Scotland Yard has been practically closed to all except those who can show some good reason for desiring to visit it. The museum has never been opened to the general public, but it has not been difficult to obtain admission. Now the public is being asked to stop admittance to the museum.

MAN STARTS THIRTY YEARS SENTENCE IN PRISON FOR STEALING THREE KISSES

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

San Quentin, Cal., March 21.—Prison door closed here today on Charles Guyton who was sentenced to spend 30 years in San Quentin by Superior Judge Willis of Los Angeles for stealing three kisses from Miss Daisy Staggwald. Guyton held up the girl last December. After taking ten cents from her purse he kissed her. He then returned the money with the remark, "It was worth it." The other girls identified Guyton as the man who had stopped them on the street, gun in hand, and kissed and hugged them after stealing small change from their purses.

VARSITY TRACK MEET STARTS AT EVANSTON

Two Hundred Star Western Athletes To Compete in Indoor Conference Meet at Northwestern.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Evanston, Ill., March 21.—Two hundred athletes, the pick of the track field men of middle western universities, arrived here today to participate in the annual indoor track and field meet of the western gymnasium football held in Patten gymnasium tonight. With them came several hundred rooters from Madison, Champaign, Lafayette, Chicago and university centers within a radius of 200 miles. Northwestern, Illinois, and Northwestern are favored for first place. They have the largest lists of entrants, each of the other conference schools—Minnesota, Ohio State, Iowa, Indiana and Purdue, having entered only a handful of stars with a view of pulling down individual victories.

Short dash records for the conference indoor affairs may go tonight when Torney of Wisconsin, Knight of Chicago, Murray of Illinois, and Spink of Minnesota, clash on the saucer track. Torney is the veteran of the bunch with Knight and Murray touted as comers who may displace the Badger star.

Consistent performances, but not far above the average, are expected in the distance events. White and Harvey of Wisconsin, Campbell and Goodwin of Chicago, Kraft and Treador of Northwestern, Mason and Belkap of Illinois, and Spray of Purdue, are the shining lights in these events.

The quarter and half-mile events are better class. Osborne of Northwestern is one of the best men in the country in the middle-distance events, but he will be pushed hard by Campbell of Chicago, Schley of Wisconsin, and Pars and Henderson of Illinois.

Pittenger, an Ohio State star, is touted to win the hurdles with Thomas of Chicago, and Legler of Wisconsin, the two next best men entered on the strength of previous performances. Neither the hurdles nor the shot-put are expected to develop any record-breaking performances.

With five men capable of clearing the bar at six feet or a shade better, the high jump promises to be one of the most sensational contests of the night's meet. Wahl of Wisconsin, James of Northwestern, Cox and Gorgas of Chicago and Clear of Illinois, are the best performers.

LOWER BONDS ON BELOIT ITALIAN CHARGED WITH RECEIVING STOLEN GOODS

United States Court Commissioner Stanley Tallman was before the Madison Federal court yesterday on the case of Vincent DeLorenzo, the Beloit Italian arrested in connection with the case of the stolen goods at Rockton and the discovery of stolen goods at his store in Beloit. Bonds on the prisoner were lowered from two thousand dollars to seven hundred and fifty, but as he was unable to furnish this bail, he will await his trial at the county jail.

His preliminary examination was set today but was adjourned until next week when United States District Attorney John A. Alward, will be present to prosecute the case. If the court decides to hold him, his trial will be held before the Federal court at Madison.

COMPLETE NEW SYSTEM OF ELECTRIC TOWING ALONG FRENCH CANAL

Paris, March 21.—A new and simple system of electric towing has been installed with great success on the canal from the Marne to the Rhine near Nancy. Along the banks a series of stunts posts has been placed fitted with rollers, over which run endless cables, which, at each end of the installation, pass round a drum worked by electric motor. The cables, which their tow rope to the cable by a special contrivance. Prolonged trials have established that the new method costs about fifty per cent less than any other method tried up to the present and is, in addition, much quicker. The great superiority of the system consists in the ease in which it can be applied without altering in any way the banks of the canal or the type of barge used.

MOVING PICTURES CAUSING DISEASE

Examination by Philadelphia Hospital Shows "Movies" Spreading St. Vitus Dance Among Children.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Philadelphia, March 21.—The moving picture film is a contributing factor to the spread among children of the nervous affection known as St. Vitus dance, according to the findings of the social service department of the Philadelphia Orthopedic Hospital, an institution for the nervous diseases.

A careful examination was made by social workers of the histories of 109 children suffering with St. Vitus dance, and Miss Blanche Jones, under whose supervision the investigation was made, said today that there was no question that the moving picture show is a strong contributing factor to the wide-spread prevalence of the disease.

SAY PROHIBITION LAW AGAINST ABSINTHE HAS INCREASED THE DEMAND

Berne, March 21.—Opponents of the prohibition of absinthe in Switzerland declare that since the law went into effect the consumption of that spirit has greatly increased. They claim that the principal effect has been to replace absinthe with a wider variety of liquors, which are smuggled in in large quantities and form a fast growing and highly remunerative illicit industry.

ATTACK ON TORREON WILL BRING CRISIS

Twelve Thousand Rebel Soldiers Stationed Outside of Federal City.

VILLA'S ARMY IS READY

Troops Eager for Attack on Important Stronghold Which Blocks the Way to Mexico City.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Constitutionalist headquarters, Yermo, Durango, Mex., March 21.—With cannon planted, with practically all accoutrements of war furnished and ready, Gen. Pancho Villa with his 12,000 rebel soldiers today were almost prepared to begin the investment of Torreon; to hurl the first shell into the trenches of the resisting federal army under Gen. Rafael Velasco in what is considered the decisive battle of the constitutionalist revolution.

Full of confidence and certain of victory, Gen. Villa has magnetically transmitted his energy to his subordinates and today the waking of the camp at Yermo presented a scene which never had marked a revolutionary movement in Mexico. The peon soldiers hurried here and there giving final touches to the establishment of the rebel's plans for opening assault, spurred on by the short commands of superiors whose every order is given with an admonition against delay. Refreshed by a night's sleep after their long, hard march through the desert from Mapimi and Bermejo, the little khaki-clad soldiers of Villa sprang to their work with a zest which discounts the stern order for haste.

Sure City Will Fall

And the beginning today saw the rebel army stationed on the outskirts of the federal stronghold, a position they had gained without resistance and with scarcely the sound of a shot to check their preparations for an assault. Within Torreon all was comparatively quiet and none in the rebel camp knew what preparations Gen. Velasco was making to repel the onslaught of the revolutionists.

Speculation as to when the battle will begin was rife today among the soldiers and the civilians who had followed the rebel leader south from Chihuahua but Villa himself still ready, answered all inquiries with the vantage that "Torreon will be mine in a week."

He is giving great attention to every detail of camp and armaments with a desire to know that nothing save the federalists themselves can check his victorious march to the national capital.

O'Shaughnessy at Vera Cruz

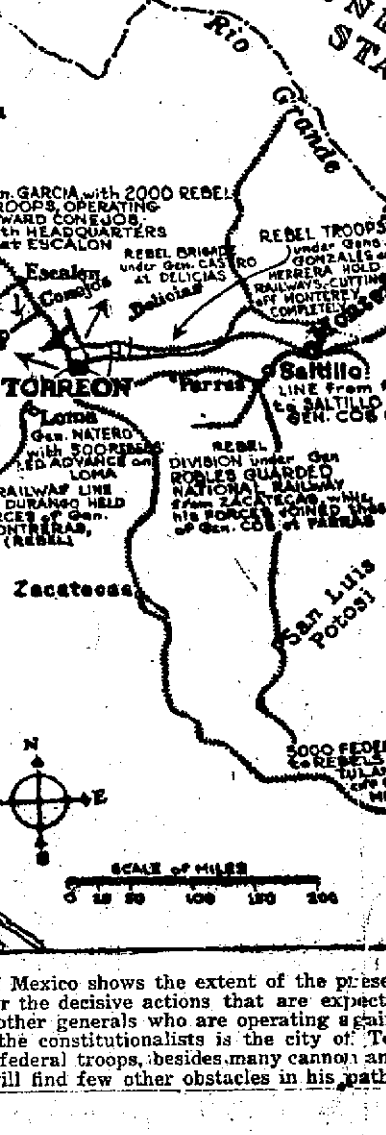

Vera Cruz, March 21.—Nelson O'Shaughnessy, charge d'affaires arrived here today in a private car escorted by a company of presidential guard. He expects to remain for several days to undergo treatment for sciatic rheumatism.

Rear Admiral Frank F. Fletcher, American naval commander, expects to return here from the federal capital on Monday. A wireless dispatch from Clarence Miller, American consul at Tampico, reports that all railroad and wire communication has been interrupted for the past four days. He says the rebels are reported to be running trains regularly between Victoria and Almatira.

Capture Las Vacas

Del Rio, Tex., March 21.—Last night fifty constitutionalist troops took possession of the town of Las Vacas, Mexico, which was evacuated by federalists Thursday. Las Vacas is opposite here.

WILL LA FOLLETTE SEEK COMPROMISE?

IS IT POSSIBLE HE IS MAKING UP WITH MCGOVERN FOR ULTERIOR MOTIVES?

IS DEAL PENDING NOW?

By Which McGovern Will Run Again for Governor And La Follette Hand the Senatorial Situation to Democrats.

(N. B.—This is one of a series of articles written exclusively for the Gazette on the Wisconsin political situation.)

(By Bob Acres.) I have often wondered how a man felt who saw his obituary notice at the top of the "column next to reading matter" while he still survived the ordeal. Personally, I thought it must be most annoying and if I was in appears to the editor, perhaps a trifle embarrassing. However, I lived through my death notice the other day. I heard my pet articles, dissected, dissected, analyzed and myself hung, drawn and quartered and my corpse buried at a cross roads with spikes driven through it, paradoxically speaking. It was on a train from the state capital to Beloit. The conversation I overheard was all within the borders of Rock county, from Milton Junction to Janesville. I think the fare is something like twenty-three cents and I certainly felt like that proverbial sum when the awful chorus got through with me. I was charged with everything short of horse stealing and if that had been a capital offense, the Beloit lawyer who supported his companion, an aspirant for the gubernatorial nomination by the way, could have found words to condemn me of that I would have been given short shift by the train crew. I wonder if anyone has told who I am? That is who I really am beyond being Bob Acres? If so I am afraid I never will be able to sell another pound of merchandise in Rock county until this cruel war is over.

However, I am not discouraged, as is evidenced that I again dared to hold my head up and declare what is what. I tell you all, once and so it can not be questioned. If you wish to accomplish anything this fall you must organize and work for a non-partisan ticket for the sole purpose of future depredations upon your pocket-book if for nothing else. It can not be done by individual firing from behind stone walls and fences; it must be accomplished in open battle. When it is finished it will be something to brag of.

Really, in this fight I am a free lance. I have always been a republican. I have voted for the republican nominee for years, but my fingers crossed and my teeth clenched, but now I am a free lance. I am a political soldier of fortune. I am ready for any candidate who comes along who looks good for me. The Democrats taught us that the parties, state or otherwise, were not binding to them, so in this off year in politics I am going ahead seeking whom I may devour, as it were. I am going to whisper a secret to you and be sure and do it. I mean, I found it out by listening at Madison the other day. La Follette and McGovern are going to make friends and patch up all past differences? Can you figure out what that means? Well, let me go further and suggest that if they do, McGovern will run again for governor, to hold the state administration machine, some democrat will be elected United States senator and the field will be clear for La Follette two years from now to run for the presidential nomination, and if he fails—perish the thought—he can still run again for his seat in the senate.

Now listen! McGovern knows he has a hard row to hoe this year. La Follette knows it, too. Col. Mannan has not been in Wisconsin for several weeks for nothing. He has reported the democrats are very strong throughout the state on the gubernatorial situation. That Karel has a clear field to himself and that if he is elected, with a legislature that is going to reform the reformers, it means the very mischief for La Follette and his cohorts. Especially if he has McGovern and his cohorts against him two years from now when he wants the presidential endorsement or the senatorial nomination.

When I first started writing these letters I intimated that La Follette would like to see a democrat in the United States senate in case of a continuance of democratic power, or even better still, in case the republicans returned to their own, and he would be the only republican from Wisconsin to have a say in the disposal of patronage. Well, think it over now.

McGovern can not be elected if there is a division in the republican ranks even if he gets the nomination at the September primaries. No republican can be elected if the rift with McGovern is going to divide the republican vote and the feeling is at all hard. What follows?

The democrats, if they stick together, can elect a democratic governor, and the tail will go with the hide. That means that the United States senatorship will go with the democratic election. (Where is La Follette then? Well, he is on easy street if the man elected is Ayward or Davies.)

They sold out the democratic vote two years ago, as sure as shooting, to him, to defeat Karel and elect McGovern, and he must return the compliment. As it stands now, Davies or Ayward hand out all the democratic rap in the state anyway, so what's the difference? If the republicans get in why La Follette will be in their position, with his law partner as the Wisconsin republican committeeman. See through the trick now?

Now if La Follette loses the state machinery it will be hard work for him to get the republican endorsement for the presidential nomination.

J. J. SMITH, Master Watchmaker

313 W. Milw. St.

He must have that machinery. To get this he must induce McGovern to keep on with his defense of the high taxes, to explain them away with the assistance of his paid men "fixers"—Haugen and Adams, and Rosa down at Beloit, and a few others, and still hold on to that governor's job. With state pap safe La Follette can lay his plans for what job he wants. If he fails for the presidential nomination he has plenty of time to get in line for re-nomination for the senatorship, and with Davies and Ayward fixed by nomination and election this year all the "fair minded democrats" will flock to his standard.

Now there is one way I see for the democrats to beat this game if it is ever brought to a focus and that is to have a man in readiness for the democratic nomination for the United States senate that will beat Ayward or Davies at the primaries. A man like Burr Jones of Madison, for instance. I knew Jones when he went to congress years ago. He was a first rate congressman. He did his work well all while he only served one term he made his mark down there. Send him back if you want to. He would be a credit to the state, and to the democrats as well. Your democrats must pick out a man of his caliber if you want to beat the game out at its inception. Think it over.

Meanwhile the state fight is on in earnest. No let-up in the number of aspirants for office for all the jobs vacant. Congress, senator, assemblyman, state officer, governor, what not. They are there with their lightning-rods up waiting for that political storm.

It is amusing to watch their antics. See Rosa in Milwaukee waiting to be a state power, he is waiting for the election and election for mayor of the Cream City. See Karel talking about his plans. Listen to Hatton, to Roethlis with his cow-hide boots, and even Crownhart, who has not given up yet, and Hall whose hair fairly stands on end as he bristles. Then there is Rosa down at Beloit. He follows Wilson's attitude of "watching and waiting" and like Wilson will be left some day in the lurch when Bryan goes off to a chautauqua lecture and leaves the broder like unguarded and Japan jumps in and gobles up Mexico, Huerta and all.

Now think this all over and see if I am not right? I do not mean to be cynical and I do not mean to be a seer, but I feel that there is just now and every voter in the state must be careful and not make any mistake. Take care of the legislature and then the rest of the local troubles will vanish. With the legislature safe the claws of the great demon "REFORM" are clipped. Remember that. The question of taxes can be adjusted and lots of other things straightened out.

STATE TITLE NEXT; HIGHS WIN 73 TO 31

1913 WISCONSIN WINNERS EASILY TROUNCE WAUWATOSA FIVE LAST EVENING.

ARE REAL CHAMPIONS

Game Was Played at Co. C. Armory Floor, Whitewater—Atwood Scores Twelve Baskets.

Slow in getting their usual start, the Janesville high school 1913 Wisconsin state basketball champions took the measure of the Wauwatosa quintet in an elimination contest played last night at Whitewater, trouncing the Milwaukee suburb team by the score of 73 to 31.

To say the least, the Bower City champs were always on the job. The slippery floor excuse seems to be a common one, and it is a good one. Even the Wauwatosa five could not stand up, after playing on such floors for weeks past. Janesville in attempting to guard, would find it impossible to stop and were forced to slide past their opponents all the time. In this way, the Wauwatosa men scored most of their points.

Janesville players, despite the disadvantages, played their best game of the year and are heralded as the coming champions of Wisconsin. No description could fully tell the truth as to their playing qualities, for they are in a class by themselves. If they can stand the pace throughout the state meet, and keep up their form, the title will come easy.

Atwood was the biggest sensation. He scored twelve times and raised his total for the year up to 67. Hemming scored seven times in the twenty-five minutes which he played, and brought his total up to 73. It looks like Hemming would set a record to equal last year's mark, that of 109 goals in seventeen games.

Stewart was the hero guard for the champions. Playing back and sticking both forward many times, he was able to play the old Falter stunt of last year, by obtaining the ball from both forwards and returning it to the middle of the floor out of danger. He played forward in the last few minutes, and scored twice.

Dalton would have been missed last night, although the men feel that they could have won, with a second team. Repeatedly on his signal, Dalton rushed up the floor and caged the ball, before the Wauwatosa men woke up. No one could stop him.

Stickney, the featherweight right forward, had Wauwatosa's best man guarding him. Jackson was his name, and he held Stickney to six baskets, which is a credit to Jackson. Stickney has improved so much, within the past few weeks, that his floor work in the state meet should mean a lot in winning Janesville's games.

During the early part of the second half, Barnes took Dalton's place at right guard, Dalton going to left forward in Atwood's place. Atwood was shifted to center, and Captain Hemming went out. Stewart later was shifted from left guard to right forward, while Ray went in at left guard. This shift made practically a new team, and the men worked exceptionally well together.

The first half was slow. In fact the entire game was not as fast as a fast exhibition. Jackson, for Wauwatosa, scored the first basket, which is usually the case. When Janesville did get started after five minutes of play, the numberless baskets came easy. Stickney began the scoring, followed by Atwood and Hemming. The second half was resorted to trying new plays, and shifting the men.

The line-ups and score is as follows: Janesville: Atwood, and Dalton, 17; Stickney and Stewart, 17; Capt. Hemming and Atwood, 17; Stewart and Ray, 17; Dalton and Barnes, 17. Wauwatosa: Perry, 11; Klunker, 17; Holsinger, 17; Capt. B. Jackson, 17; Pease, 17; A. Jackson and De Swartz, substitutes.

Field goals: Atwood, 12; Hemming, 7; Dalton, 7; Stickney, 6; Stewart, 2; Ray, 1; Perry, 6; Klunker, 1; B. Jackson, 5; Pease, 2.

Free throws: Hemming, 1; Atwood, 2; Perry, 6.

Gifts—Wauwatosa, 1.

Referee: Bradish, Wisconsin.

Have you got hoarseness that continues? Or do you get hoarseness once in a while, whenever you get the slightest cold? Hoarseness means a catarrhal condition of the vocal cords. The vocal cords are way down in the larynx and when affected by hoarseness should cause serious concern.

Peruna has been found to be an excellent remedy for such cases. We have received testimonials from responsible people who have been relieved of hoarseness by Peruna. Should you want to read a lot of excellent testimonials on all subjects write for the

TALKS ON THRIFT

No. 1—Mistaken Opposition To Saving

"Thrift began with civilization. It began as soon as men realized that it was necessary to provide for tomorrow as well as for today. It began long before money was invented. Thrift means private economy as well as the order and management of a family."—Samuel Smiles.

SOME persons are trying industriously to spread abroad the foolish idea that it is useless for a workman to save money. They argue that if he does save his wages will be reduced proportionately; that if everybody saved it would bring about a panic, and that the State ought to provide old age pensions anyway.

These so-called arguments are neither economically sound, nor are they born out by common sense and experience.

Even if there were an "iron law of wages" tending to reduce them to a minimum, in this country we can depend upon labor unions to counteract any such tendency, while it is a fact that the thrifty man is the best workman and all employers recognize it. A large employer recently said:

"We are always glad to find an employee has a savings account, for then we know that there is a strong influence at work developing his character and adding to his integrity of purpose. Give me the boy who saves to make the man worth while."

As far as the danger of panic and hard times because of everybody saving money is concerned, no one need worry about that. In the first place, because there will never come a time when everybody will save. The spendthrift, like the poor, we shall always have with us, and it is partly because we have so many of the former that we have so many of the latter.

Then if saving did become general as it should, it would not mean that people were hoarding their money in old stockings, bureau drawers or even in safe deposit boxes. The money would be deposited in the banks and through them used to help along business and industry, or it would be invested by the savers direct. The point that is overlooked by such critics of saving is the fact that it is really CREDITS and not CASH that is being saved when people deposit money in the bank for the reason that the bank immediately turns around and LENDS a large part of its deposits to persons who use it for useful economic purposes. Another thing to be remembered is that the workman's dollar, which is not of much use in itself, when deposited in the bank is combined with hundreds and thousands and millions of other dollars, and its productive value is correspondingly increased.

Another foolish objection to saving made in some quarters is that the State ought to provide old age pensions and then a man wouldn't need to save.

For the average man to give up all idea of saving on the POSSIBILITY of the State taking care of him in his old age, is as foolish as it would be for him not to work at all because somebody might come along and offer to do his work for him.

Besides, old age is not the only thing for which a man should save, there are opportunities and emergencies in everyday life that he has to meet.

There is a sure and simple way to provide for a comfortable old age. It consists of making the most of the active years of your life. Not only in earning money, but also in saving it.

Every time you make a deposit in the savings bank consider that it is providing just so much more for your necessities and comforts later on when your earning capacity diminishes and comes to an end, as it surely will.

WEATHER FORECAST.

Fair with moderate temperatures.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

When over the fair fame of friend or foe
The shadow of disgrace shall fall;
Instead of words of blame, or proof of so
and so,
Let something good be said.
Forget not that no fellow being yet
May fall so low but love may lift his head.
Even the cheek of shame with tears
is wet,
If something good be said.
No generous heart may turn aside
In ways of sympathy; no soul so dead
But may awaken strong and glorified,
If something good be said.
And so I charge ye, by the thorny crown,
And by the cross on which the Savior bled,
And by your own soul's hope for fair
renewal,
Let something good be said.
—James Whitcomb Riley.

This word of kindly advice is worth heeding for so much easier to criticize and censure, than to commend, that the most of us are in the guilty class.

Next to character, the choicest heritage which a soul possesses is reputation and the thing which makes or mars reputation, in large degree, is what people say about us. In other words we possess the power to make or break the fair name of the people about us.

The grave responsibility is not always recognized, and seldom appreciated. One of the choicest eulogies was pronounced on a life which recently finished its pilgrimage, and passed on when a friend in speaking of her Christian grace said: "She never spoke ill of anyone."

This wonderful control was not due to lack of provocation, for none of us are exempt, and somebody every day shares the benefit of our opinion.

The business world, more than any other realm, recognizes the fact that the world's greatest asset is confidence, because this is the capital which represents ninety per cent of the great volume of business carried on.

The trunk lines which stretch across the continent, had their inception in confidence, and the money to construct and carry them on, is secured through faith in the enterprise, as well as in the men behind it.

The captains of industry, and the men who do things, are never libelers of either character or reputation. They appreciate their value, and so the bond of confidence is carefully guarded. In times of panic and financial disturbance, the banks in every community stand together for mutual as well as for public protection.

They know that the strongest bank as well as the strongest business house, is not strong enough to stand alone, when confidence is destroyed, and they also know that the breaking of the weakest link in the chain may result in disaster.

The business world is a wise world, when it comes to conserving resources, and the policy pursued might well be adopted in every other realm. Society is reckless in dealing with reputation, and many fair names are tarnished by thoughtless gossip or open attack.

The shadow of suspicion develops rapidly and often envelops an innocent life in a dark cloud from which escape is difficult. The saying of a good word is often more important than performing a good deed, and yet the word is frequently withheld.

Many good people satisfy themselves with the belief that their first and only duty is to their own household. While there is no question about the first obligation, it is just as evident that society, of which we are a part, has a claim on us.

The most of us spend our lives within narrow environments, and the great outside world does not mean very much to us. We become so familiar with the horizon that shuts us in, that the sunlit mornings and golden sunsets are not always appreciated.

The associations of our little world are so close that we know all about each other's weaknesses, and it is so easy to magnify them, that the good is often overlooked. The community life that is the most wholesome is free from gossip and slander.

Community life is the unit of the commonwealth, and the weaving process, which makes these units, determines the character of the state. That is why the status of some states ranks higher than others in the world of intelligence and morality.

The state of Kansas is noted as a musical and literary state, because every farm home supports a piano and library, while Nevada runs to mining schemes and divorce.

Wisconsin frowns at prohibition and suffrage for women, because beer is a popular beverage in many communities, and our adopted sisters are not clamoring for woman's rights.

By the same token the state has gone daffy on reform, because our easy-going, conservative people consented to be led like sheep, by a bunch of designing politicians.

Speaking about politicians and patriots who are near strangers, it may not be out of place to suggest that they represent, as a class, the worst misbegotten of reputation and character today to be found in the country.

This wholesale charge may seem a little severe, and yet the nation, as well as many states, is suffering today because of the pernicious activity of public servants and job-hunters.

The trend of much reform legislation is along the line of defamation of character. "Big business" has been traduced, and corporate wealth attacked, until the men associated are regarded as criminals. The good name of the nation has suffered, as a result, to say nothing of the individual.

In our own state a system of espionage has been established and the taxpayer is treated as a serf. His word is not only questioned, but it is disbelieved, unless backed by an oath, and he is no longer considered competent to run his own business.

The climax is reached this year by the confiscation of property through unjust taxes, and this amounts to legalized robbery, yet when people rebel, as they did at the court house meeting, not long ago, they are accused, by the elect, of being disturbers.

How long these conditions will continue, it is difficult to determine. Protests are heard on every hand, but the people are without organization and but little can be accomplished through individual action. It is high time that something was done to redeem the state from its defamers. The young man who leaves home to seek employment among strangers, is usually asked for references, and the good word of a friend often secures him a position. Every day life is made up of the little things which in themselves seem insignificant, yet they have much to do in shaping destiny. Some one said, very truthfully, a time ago.

"There is so much good in the worst of us,
And so much bad in the best of us,
That it hardly behooves any of us
To talk about the best of us."

Janesville, as a member of a sub-federal league, is being talked of by baseball enthusiasts. Well, Janesville has a good ball park. Why not?

A Haunting Fragrance

In your toilet you desire one prevailing fragrance—not a discordance of many scents, all pleasing perhaps but all different.

Select one delicate odor to be characteristic of all your toilet necessities. You then achieve the real intent of artistic perfumery—a haunting fragrance, always the same, that will always mean you.

We have succeeded in imparting to a notable group of toilet products—the elusive Bouquet Jeanie scent.

Bouquet Jeanie is for those who desire an individual and aristocratic fragrance in all their toilet articles. For three years leading American perfumers experimented with this blend, and it was twice taken abroad for the criticisms of the foremost French perfumers. It is composed of rare and costly oriental oils—Bulgarian Rose, Indian Vetiver, Singapore Sandalwood and Manila Ylang Ylang—so evenly blended that none predominates. It is a veritable harmony, rich, delicate, refined, haunting, lasting.

The Rexall Store is the only place where you can find Bouquet Jeanie products. The Rexall Stores, of which there are more than 7,000 in the United States, Canada and Great Britain—one in each principal city and town—own the big perfume laboratories in Boston in which Bouquet Jeanie is made. Their co-operation arrangements make it possible for The Rexall Store in your town to supply you with goods that are always fresh, and at exceedingly low prices. Your money will be refunded without question if you are not perfectly satisfied.

The use of Bouquet Jeanie gives the advantage of added refinement and satisfaction to your toilet. See our window display.

NEARLY 300 ATTEND TEACHERS' MEETING

ATTENDANCE AT ROCK COUNTY PEDAGOGUES' SESSION IS RECORD BREAKER.

OFFICERS ARE CHOSEN

Prin. John W. Gahagan of Milton Schools, Elected President of Organization.

The annual meeting of the Rock County Teachers' Association, met today at the Jamesville high school, in a general session at nine-thirty. Following by joint meetings on various kinds of work, during the afternoon.

The general session this morning proved to be doubly interesting. The opening number was a selection by the orchestra of students in the city schools, led by Miss Sewell. At nine-forty, C. M. Sanford, president of Plattville Normal school, gave an able address on "The Winning Spirit of the Twentieth Century." It was an inspiring talk. President J. A. H. Keith of Oshkosh Normal school, was the next speaker. He spoke on education and its phases, and what he had to say met with the decided approval of those present. An address, "The High Calling of Teachers," was the winning talk of the meeting, and was presented by President O. Carrier of Carroll college, Wausau, whose address was thoroughly convincing. A committee for nominating candidates was in order. P. J. Lowth was chosen chairman, with F. O. Holt of Edgerton, Milton, and Ruggan of Plattville as other members.

This committee acted at once, and the following officers for the coming year were nominated and later elected.

President—Prin. John W. Gahagan, Milton Junction.

Vice President—Miss Carrie Chamberlain, Clinton.

Secretary—Miss Sadie M. Clapp, Jamesville.

Treasurer—Miss Ella Jacobson, training school, Jamesville.

J. F. DONAHUE DIED SUDDENLY ON FRIDAY

Passed Away at Cincinnati—Remains Brought to Jamesville for Interment.

Friday afternoon at twenty minutes past four, Joseph F. Donahue, beloved husband of Patricia Donahue, died in Cincinnati, Ohio, after a long illness of ill-health. Though he had been in poor health, his death was sudden and unexpected as he was able to walk to the doctor's office on Thursday. He moved to Cincinnati last fall to associate himself in business with his brother-in-law, William Connell. Since living there, Mr. Donahue had improved in strength and it was believed by his friends that he was on the road to complete recovery. The tidings of his death came as sad news to his many friends.

His body was brought to this city at eleven o'clock today, the remains being met by a large representation from the Knights of Columbus, of which he was a fourth degree member, and of the B. P. O. E., with which he was also affiliated. The remains

TIDE OF EMIGRATION DECREASING RAPIDLY

LONDON SUFFERING FROM INVASION OF COLONY OF CRIMINAL BLACKMAILERS.

OTHER LONDON CABLES

Commander of Troops in Ireland Tells Exact Military Feeling of Soldiers on Ulster Trouble.

London, March 21.—American crooks now give London a wide berth. Superintendent William McCarthy of the criminal investigation department of Scotland Yard states that only on rare occasions does his department have to handle a case in which an American crook plays a part. When Frank Frost, McCarthy's predecessor at the head of the criminal investigation department, was serving his apprenticeship as a detective inspector, American crooks were so numerous that he was sent several times to America to study their habits on their native heath.

At present, however, London is suffering from an invasion of crooks from the colonies. Most of these come from Australia and South Africa and they are of the type which resort to violence in their quest. Many of them thrive by blackmailing wealthy colonials who have taken up their residence in London. Some of these residents have pasts, the revelation of which would spell disaster and social oblivion, and the blackmailers who follow them from the colonies fatten on this knowledge.

In accounting for the disappearance from London of the American crooks, Scotland Yard officials expressed the opinion that the skillful confidence man finds better openings on the continent while his less artful colleague finds a safer outlet for his energies at home.

Emigration Declining.

The tide of western emigration has slackened decidedly. Four steamships scheduled to sail within the next month have had their advertised departures canceled. At this time it is impossible to get away on a third class berth on an English liner going to Canada without an order several weeks in advance.

The migration toward Australia continues, but diminished in comparison with last year. It is expected to increase soon, however, with the first trial of the government plan to assist English lads to places of apprenticeship among South Australian farmers. Under legislation passed last session the commissioner of crown lands and immigration is empowered to act as guardian of boys taking advantage of the plan, and ample safeguards have been placed about the interests of the boys as well as the rights of their employers.

The first party of boys for Australia will leave Liverpool late this month. This party will serve as an experiment, and if successful the plan will be carried out on a large scale. In the past Australia has complained that the adult Briton does not readily adjust himself to rural life in the Antipodes, and, becoming discontented, joins the already overworked ranks of labor in the cities, leaving the problem of rural depopulation as acute as ever. It is believed that by the time their apprenticeship ends the boys will be quite willing to stay on the farms.

Hotels Overcrowded.

Notwithstanding that London has spent $50,000,000 during the past ten years in building new hotels or improving old ones, largely for the accommodation of American visitors, the hotels are still overcrowded during the tourist season.

It is estimated that 100,000 Americans now pay visits of some length to London during each summer, whereas a few years ago the metropolis was declared to be only a stopping place for a day or so for tourists bound to the continent.

General Military View.

General Sir Arthur Paget, who commands the troops in Ireland, at a dinner given him at the Corinthian club, Dublin, told his audience what the exact feeling was in the army over the Ulster question. He had been assured, he said, that there was no intention on the part of the government to make use of troops in Ireland except "to maintain the law and order." Speaking of Irish troops and the Ulster volunteers, who are being organized to resist home rule, the general said:

"It is not thinkable, it is not possible for me to contemplate ever being asked to concentrate my men and to move against the forces in the north of Ireland."

"At the same time, you must remember that in our lives we soldiers often have to do things that we do not like. When we have to deal with large bodies of men who understand the meaning of the word discipline it means that, however distasteful it may be to them, they will carry out any orders given to them by the king. And it may be—God forbid! it should be—my lot to be ordered to the north. I should regret it. I have no doubt that many officers would regret it, but if the order comes that order must be obeyed."

This speech is taken as the reply of the official heads of the army to those who have suggested that many officers would refuse to obey orders to put down revolution in Ulster.

Radium is well known to those who are experimenting with radium would be silent for the next couple of years until they know where they are and can make some definite announcement," said Dr. Chas. R. Ryd, chairman of the medical committee of the Cancer hospital, at a recent meeting of the governors.

"Radium," he added, "has not come to supplant surgery in the treatment of cancer, but it is fighting it. The use of radium is comparatively little known, and we are therefore going through the experimental stage of radium treatment and endeavoring to fathom its effect on disease, especially cancer. We estimate its dosage and classify what cases are suitable for treatment by it. That will mean some years of work, but we can wait with confidence for a definite announcement, as the radium research work in the country is being carried out systematically and is in the best hands."

Dr. Ryd said there was enormous field for research work at the Cancer hospital but it was hampered by the inadequate supply of radium and its enormous cost.

Navy Handicapped.

The British navy is being handicapped by inability to keep up a continuous and adequate supply of coal. This is said in naval circles to be the real cause of the decision not to hold any grand maneuvers this summer and for the cancellation of the review of the fleet which the king had intended to hold at Spithead. Every effort is being made to husband the supply of oil at the supply stations and to use it only in such ships as burn oil exclusively. The destroyers have been kept in harbor since they arrived at Christmas.

Electrical Trespass.

The view of a county court judge that the action of money lenders in ringing up a debtor at his employer's office constitutes "electrical trespass" is endorsed by the Law Journal, which states: "To ring the telephone at another person's house in order to put pressure on some person employed there is not only a most offensive thing to do, but is an insufferable trespass for which, no doubt, substantial damages could be recovered by the owner."

AFRICAN KING BECOMES SLAVE TO GOLF CHARMS; CONSTRUCTS BIG LINKS

Kabul, Afghanistan, March 21.—This country, which has kept itself as free as any place in the Orient from western institutions, has finally succumbed to the charms of golf. The sponsor of the royal and ancient game is the Amir himself who is rapidly becoming an expert player under tutelage of a Scottish mining engineer. This Scottish engineer, Kabul looking for mining concessions. He brought with him his bag of clubs on the remote chance of finding golf links in a country, which had cherished a prejudice against any game with a ball since the time of Omar Khayyam, and soon discovered that the monarch was fonder of talking sport than business. When he spoke enthusiastically of the Scottish royal game, the Amir lost no time in putting a corps of sappers and miners to work constructing a course under the direction of the visitor. Since that time the Amir has become a devoted exponent of the game and he has attained a fair degree of proficiency. But no matter what his skill he bids fair to remain champion of the country, for it is not considered polite to defeat a man who enjoys the power of life and death over every one of his subjects.

The game has reduced the girth of the Amir and improved his health, but he is afraid of overdoing it, so at a miniature links de luxe, limited in size, and as smooth as a tennis lawn. Here he will play the game without any of the bunkers or hazards usually provided by the ordinary course.

BUILDING DEFENSE FOR INDIA STRIFE

British Building Line of Forts at Khyber Pass to Prevent Invasion From North.

Peshawar, India, March 21.—With secrecy and speed unusual in public work, British army engineers are rushing to completion the forts and roads of Khyber Pass, to make it a barrier against invasion from the north. As domestic unrest grows in India, the fear of the Russian bear and the unruly states between Russia and the Indian empire increases, and England is clearly determined not to be attacked in the rear in the event of a native rebellion.

Two years ago the road across the famous pass was hardly more than a trail for pack animals, but today Khyber is traversed by two roads suitable for the heaviest and heaviest military traction. The defensive works have been constructed with such secrecy that none of the details are known to the public. It is believed that the natural battlements formed by the cliffs above the roads are honeycombed with hidden embrasures behind which great mountain guns lie hidden. Competent engineers believe that unless the defending force is cut off from the south, the pass can be defended by a small garrison against a host such as the ancient invaders of India brought down from the north.

SEEK TO ORGANIZE A WORLD'S CONGRESS FOR PANAMA-PACIFIC FAIR

Brussels, March 21.—The Union of International Associations, composed of some fifty international associations, professional, scientific, technical, benevolent and political, has decided to organize a world's congress to meet next year at San Francisco during the Panama-Pacific Exhibition. It appears from a communication received from San Francisco that 202 various congresses have already been announced. The union's idea is that the world's congress should be made up of delegates chosen by the national and international congresses which will assemble in San Francisco. No effort has yet been made toward a program.

Madame Caillaux's Friends Shower Attentions Upon Her

Mme. Caillaux.

Paris, March 21.—Madame Caillaux, the assassin of Gaston Calmette, was showered with attention today. Her friends and acquaintances, having partly recovered from the shock caused by her act, are now showing their interest in her fate and hundreds of them have written to her or left cards at St. Lazare prison, where she is in custody. She received a huge bag of letters in every mail, as well as great bouquets of flowers, baskets of fruit and packages of books.

Madame Caillaux passed the great part of the forenoon in answering her correspondence, reading the newspapers and conversing with her husband and little daughter. The sharp watchfulness of the prison warden and the attendant nuns which had been called forth by rumors of the prisoner's intention to commit suicide, has now relaxed. Madame Caillaux gives no indication of being morbid or depressed. She has now three cells, one of them serving as a bedroom, another as a dining room and a third as a workroom. All open into the same corridor, which is enclosed by a finely meshed wire netting.

THE TON RATE AT PANAMA.

Unless one is careful to inform himself he may easily become confused in discussing the rates of toll on the Panama Canal. The law fixes the rate at $1.20 per net register ton. Now it must not be assumed that this is a rate of $1.20 per ton of freight. As a matter of fact there is no specific rate for an actual ton of freight. A net register ton is the amount of cargo required to fill a hundred cubic feet of space.

It is apparent, therefore, that sewing machines will cost a great deal more for ton of actual weight than pig iron, and crates of hats will cost much more than crates of citrus fruits. Of some commodities two and a half tons of cargo can be carried in a hundred cubic feet of space, while others only one ton can be carried. The average is around two tons of merchandise for each ton of space, that the rate will average around fifty cents for each ton of cargo that passes through the canal.

If you want to know just what is what on this whole tonnage question you will find it nowhere so simply presented as in the authoritative book on the canal by Frederick J. Haskin, now being distributed at cost among its readers by The Janesville Gazette. See the coupon elsewhere.

The weather map today shows the very unusual phenomenon of a severe storm from the west, the winds at least ten-fifths of an inch above normal. The great area of high barometer that was in British Columbia yesterday has reached the northern limit and it is the contrast between this and the barometric depression that was in the Red River valley yesterday, but which has now reached Iowa, that is the source of a severe storm, high winds, drifting snow, and zero temperatures in the upper Missouri valley. This disturbance will pass over this vicinity tonight and Sunday accompanied by snow, wind and falling temperatures.

Fair, cold weather prevails in the East, where the barometer is high. A depression over Florida is attended by northeast winds and rain on the South Atlantic coast. Cold and snow prevail in the far south as far as New Mexico and the Panhandle of Texas.

From Any Point of View— The World's Greatest Automobile Value

FROM the standpoint of appearance—the Overland has unusual grace, harmonious body proportions, symmetrical and full sweeping lines, a beautiful rich dark Brewster green finish, edged with highly-polished heavy nickel plate and aluminum.

From the standpoint of power—the Overland is a big powerful smooth running 35 horsepower car; economical to operate; easy to drive.

From the standpoint of comfort—the Overland is luxuriously upholstered in genuine hand buffed leather, tufted over specially selected curled hair, made deep with tilted divan cushions; lots of leg room; ample for five passengers; no crowding.

From a mechanical standpoint—the Overland chassis is one of the finest and most finished pieces of mechanism in the world. Parts are machined on the most expensive automatic machinery until they are accurate to one one-thousandth of an inch. Producing millions of parts for 50,000 cars makes it possible for us to employ the very latest and costliest mechanical equipment. Mechanically no car—regardless of price—could be better.

From the standpoint of size the Overland has the longest wheel-base of any car at this price in the world; the largest motor, the roomiest tonneau, and the largest tires of any car at this price in the world.

From the standpoint of equipment—the Overland is complete—having a full set of electric lights, even under the cowl dash—storage battery—windshield—electric horn—jeweled speedometer—top-boot—full set of tools, etc.

And finally, and most important of all, from a price standpoint—the Overland costs 30% less than any other similar car on the market.

Now from your standpoint—can you afford and does it seem reasonable to pay more for other cars that offer you no more than you get in the Overland for $950?

Can you?

There is an Overland dealer near you. Look him up and see this car today.

Phone him for a demonstration.

SEES GRAVE DANGER
IN TAX DISCUSSIONMILWAUKEE CORRESPONDENT
SEES GENERAL TENDENCY TO JUGGLE TAX FIGURES.

EXPERTS OFTEN WRONG

Even Professor Adams Makes a Slip of a Thousand Per Cent in His Infallible Tables.
By Ellis B. Usher.

Milwaukee, March 21.—We had what was termed a debate on the tax question here last week, but as there was no particular difference in the politics of the disputants, it was more of a gabfest than a debate. They disputed each other's figures, though, which leads me to make some suggestions. The tax question has taken such hold on the state that it is no longer necessary to argue that taxes are higher. Even those who are ineffectually trying to defend or apologize for extravagant government now admit that it costs money to have a standing army of petty officials picking the whole state. That puts it up to the taxpayer to determine whether or not that sort of surveillance is worth the price. The great danger in the wide and general talk upon taxes is the confusion of figures that is already resulting and that will mystify people who sincerely want to know. This confusion arises from two sources: a studied attempt on the part of some of those most interested in defending the existing system to drown the subject in figures that nobody understands, and the too swift efforts of critics who are unfamiliar with state reports to discuss things about which they are not and can not be fully informed.

Estimates Prove Wrong.
I cannot better illustrate than by reminding people who seem to have forgotten the very interesting fact that the first official acknowledgment last year that state expenses were phenomenally large came from State Treasurer Henry Johnson on Sept. 6. In brief he said the state would have no money to pay its December and January bills. On Sept. 23 Governor McGovern in an interview at Appleton warmly denied that there would be a deficit or a state tax. Six weeks later a tax levy was made and Secretary of State Donald said the levy was "unusual" but seemed "necessary." Governor McGovern was undoubtedly sincere in his assertions, but he was evidently misinformed or uninformed. He had been a party to the remission of state taxes in 1912 to the amount of $1,589,216. Treasurer Johnson and Secretary Donald being the other two members acting with him on the board. They were all mistaken and all had to retrace their steps and put back the state tax of 1912 to save the treasury in 1913. This is a fair measure of the governor's right to nose as an authority now. Does he know more than he did a year ago? Do any of these servants of the public know enough about the public business to give anybody confidence in their figures? The question is perfectly fair and candid. I don't think any one of them knows more about actual conditions today than Governor McGovern did last September, or in 1912.

Even Adams Mistaken.

Even Professor Adams of the tax commission, who is conducting a very pertinent newspaper campaign in defense of high taxes, made public acknowledgment recently that he had made a slip of 1,000 per cent in his infallibility as to figures. Further than all this and more important, for I care neither about personalities nor politics in this matter, the reports of the state tax commission bristle with evidence that nobody knows what state expenses actually are, or for what they are. Under such circumstances, when all the doctors disagree, outsiders should be wary.

There is just one perfectly safe method of measuring the facts, and to make use of it no taxpayer needs expert assistance or to go away from home. Any taxpayer can take his own tax receipts for ten to fourteen years back and tell what a growing luxury taxation is, and he may then reflect upon the comforting assurance of my own assessor that "taxes will be higher next year than they are this." But I want to caution all the too rapid accountants who would criticize state expenses in detail that they cannot know the unknowable and it would take a large force of men at least a year to audit the state's books and assemble the necessary facts for a complete record of the receipts and expenses of the state government of Wisconsin.

Suffragists Active.

With the return to the state recently of Mrs. Crystall Eastman Benedict

the women suffragists are stirring and then. Benedict is full of plans for them. She has been busy in Washington working for a national suffrage law the unconstitutionality and futility of which is well demonstrated in an article in this month's North

American Review by Molly Elliot

Seawell, who always writes well. She

"double dares" the suffragists to submit woman's suffrage to a vote of the women. I am reminded, too, that the women are as ready in making statistics as some of our university professors. Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge called attention recently to Mrs. Benedict's threat shaken at the Democrats in congress that if they didn't pass the suffrage bill 4,000,000 women in the suffrage states would vote against them. In the nine suffrage states, therefore, Mrs. Benedict proposes to muster more than one-fourth as many women's votes as there were votes polled by all parties in forty-eight states in the last presidential election. The total presidential vote of 1912 was a few over 15,000,000. So according to Mrs. Benedict in her little Rocky Mountain and Pacific states the women were very numerous then, for most of them who can vote now could vote then for president and congressmen. And even the women do not all vote when they can as Illinois is proving.

The anti-suffrage women had a meeting here this week and elected a temporary organization. So the women are not all going to be on one side.

Idle Money in Banks.

There is a tendency to bolster up business "optimism" with bunk these days that partakes of the general tendencies of the times. It is not good business for there is no folly greater than for a business man to fool himself. The recent bank statements have been touted by some newspapers as a great showing. This is true—a great showing of idle money. The banks of Milwaukee, for instance, show $32,000,000 less in loans and discounts than their aggregate of deposits. There was a gain of over $12,000,000 in deposits and $5,000,000 in loans since October, leaving $7,000,000 of increase in idle money. This situation is general. Yet money is not as cheap as was predicted. A part of the large increase in cash resources is in anticipation of the operation of the new currency law, but a considerable part of it is due to hesitancy in business. As I have frequently repeated the conservatism of the banks thus demonstrated has been the greatest factor in business safety for more than two years. They are walled up against panic conditions, but they don't make money by keeping it on hand. It may not have occurred to some of the airplane operators at our state capital that one reason why every man looks anxiously at his tax bill this year is that he is figuring closer to his buttons than usual.

The Erie Fleet.

Advertisement.

This month's Erie Railroad Employees Magazine has an article on the new sea-going steamer "Albert J. Stone" that is going into commission to tow coal barges between New York and Boston. It is considered one of the finest craft afloat about the great harbor of the nation's metropolis. Her designer, the eminent marine architect and engineer, Mr. W. I. Babcock has designed all Erie craft for the past five years. The "Stone" brings the Erie's fleet of tugs in New York up to twelve. The company also owns twenty-eight covered harbor barges, forty open hand hoist lighters, two steam derricks and thirty car floats. This is the freight outfit, and it owns and operates eight steel ferries that ply between New York and Jersey. When the new tug and car floats in Chicago river and the eight ships of the Erie Railroad Lake Line are added, the marine interests and investment of the Erie bulk to important size. Another big improvement for the Chicago river and a number of the lake vessels are being improved, so that a very few weeks more will see the Milwaukee and Wisconsin division of the Erie in first-class shape and busy with the season's work.

Short Notes.

J. L. Sturtevant of the Wausau Record-Herald delivered a good address on high taxes at Delavan on Thursday evening. I understood that the subject was chosen for him because there are no low taxes to talk about.

On April 9 and 10 there is to be a joint meeting in this city of the Wisconsin Academy of Sciences, Arts and Letters, the Wisconsin Archaeological society, the Wisconsin Audubon society, the Wisconsin Natural History society, and the Mycological societies of Madison and Milwaukee. The two days sessions will be devoted to papers and discussions and the meeting will close with a dinner on the evening of the 10th.

The Milwaukee Art society has now in its galleries an exhibition of the Wisconsin Painters and Sculptors, which has drawn in several exhibitors from other parts of the state, and there are also shown about forty paintings by the famous English artists, John Constable, J. M. W. Turner and Richard Bonington. John Constable's work as that of the father of modern out of door landscape painting is of especial historic interest.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENT

Written and publication authorized by James J. Sennett and to be paid for by him at the rate of 25c per inch.To You As A VOTER OF
The City of Janesville

No doubt you, as an elector of our city, and with its best interests and welfare at heart, have been more or less interested during the last two weeks as to whom would be the most CAPABLE man for the position of COMMISSIONER.

The man selected THIS year is one who SHOULD have a THOROUGH knowledge of our PUBLIC STREETS and also be qualified in an EFFICIENT manner to act in the COUNCIL CHAMBER.

The STREET QUESTION is an all important one at all times. A man should know how to build a street, how to keep same in good repair (by his selection of proper material for same) and should also know the art of OILING a street, when it should be done and the grade of oil to use. For three consecutive years I was your CITY STREET COMMISSIONER and ask you to examine carefully the improvements that were made and the care I took of our city streets. I am an admirer of CLEAN sidewalks at all times and am convinced from EXPERIENCE during my term in office that same can be kept clean WITHOUT additional cost to property owners.

My practical experience as an ALDERMAN for SIX YEARS has qualified me also, and put me in a position to know and understand thoroughly what is needed in our little city at the present time along the lines of Municipal Affairs and Civic Improvements. My first important act as a Commissioner would be an UNTIRING and DETERMINED effort to reduce our CITY Taxes, and such a thing is possible.

I have been a resident of Janesville for twenty-nine years and have always taken a deep interest in its welfare whether in public office or not. I stand before the voters next Tuesday, March 24, 1914, as one with PRACTICAL Experience both in COUNCIL CHAMBER and on PUBLIC STREETS, and kindly but earnestly solicit your CO-OPERATION and SUPPORT.

Yours respectfully,

James J. Sennett.

I HAVE every reason to feel confident that if all of you vote Tuesday, I will be re-nominated by a handsome majority. You feel that same way but do not let your confidence cause you to neglect to vote.

Whether the day be fair or stormy I ask EACH OF YOU to take the time and trouble to go to the polls.

I want to win and I am sure the majority of the voters want to see me win, but we will each have to do our share or we won't win.

I want all you friends, who are friends because you think I am the best candidate for the job, to vote for me.

I want all you young men friends to vote for me.

I want all you business men friends to vote for me.

I want all you railroad men friends to vote for me.

I want all you laboring men friends to vote for me.

WHEN in business for myself I paid thousands of dollars to Janesville working men. I always considered labor worthy of its hire and compensated it accordingly.

Under the old form of government I was Alderman under Mayor Baines and Mayor Thoroughgood, being Chairman of the Highway, Street and Bridge Committee. Later I was appointed assessor and have at all times supported, labored and fought for LOWER TAXES AND LESS POLITICS.

Side Lights On The Circus Business

By
D. W. WATT

(Copyrighted.)

It was along in the middle eighties that the Adam Forepaugh show opened in Boston, Mass., for a two weeks' engagement. It was about the first of August and proved to be two of the hottest weeks that I ever saw in the show business. We were showing on the grounds located on what was known as the Back Bay district and everyone said that this was the hottest location in all Boston.

The show did a turn-around business most of the time, and one afternoon, after I had got rid of the crowd that had hung around the wagon for almost an hour and had just settled back in a chair to catch my breath, a gentleman stepped up to the wagon and asked me some questions which I at the time thought unnecessary, and have forgotten what my answers were, but they were short. With a smile on his face, he said: "I am surprised. You face would not indicate that you were a crank and you are not, but I can plainly see that you are overworked and nervous. I have been watching you here for nearly an hour and that is why I wanted to talk with you for a minute. I have heard about your fast ticket selling and I am long ways to watch you sell this afternoon house, with no intention of coming to the show." And the nice talk that he gave me made me feel as the saying goes, "like thirty cents," and I am not certain but what it was then and there that the saying originated, although before I got through with my visit with the gentleman half that amount would have been a plenty for me.

He proved to be a high class business man of the city and on two or three occasions later he called on me, and a day or two before the show left Boston he was my guest at dinner in the cook tent, which he said meant a whole lot to him for he had seen more of show people in that time than he ever had expected to.

Thursday evening I had quite a visit with Thomas Hodgeman, manager of the "Peg O' My Heart" company which was to the Myers Grand. Mr. Hodgeman commenced his show career with the old Adam Forepaugh show in nine-one as a bill poster on Car No. 1 and later on joined the Ringling show, where he remained five or six years in different departments, and then quit the circus field and went into hotel show business. Mr. Hodgeman's home was originally in Minneapolis, but as he grew in the business he moved to New York city, which is headquarters of most of the managers and actors of the better companies in hall show business. In conversation Mr. Hodgeman said with the exception of a very few towns they had played to a capacity business almost the entire season. The owner of the show is Oliver Morosco, who has six of these shows on the road playing in different parts of the country, and all doing a phenomenal business. It certainly must be a pleasure to handle such a high class attraction, with the beautiful stage settings, fine wardrobe, finished artists, and it is not to be wondered at that they play to capacity houses.

Oliver Morosco back in the early eighties was a performer with the circus for some two or three seasons, but eventually drifted into hall show business and has since made himself independently rich. He has fourteen shows of different kinds on the road and owns theaters in San Francisco, where he made his home for some years, but later moved to New York city, as that was naturally headquarters for his business. Many of the high class managers of the hall shows today got their early education with the circus.

Years ago, when Prof. W. A. Sigbee was training ten horses for Ringling Brothers' circus, Al Ringling and other horsemen of international renown told him that it was out of the question for a horse to be taught to do tricks blindfolded, or to go through with prearranged stunts unless under the saddle with the whip constantly over him. In Captain, then seven years old, which Prof. Sigbee exhibited in the Alhambra theater in Chicago, is living proof that it can be done. Mr. Ringling and all the others are shown to have been bad prophets. Captain wears a hood of leather that precludes and possibility of him seeing cues and counts, with hoofs or toes or tongue, and selects colored ribbons tied to his legs at the word of command. His owner, who is also his trainer and exhibitor, formerly owned "Prince Tracie," which he took from coast four times and to Europe twice. He bought "Captain" four years ago in Kentucky for $1,000. Today "Captain" is valued at $50,000 and his owner is not seeking a buyer. He is half brother to Sidney Dillon, who has a mark of 2:16. This is "Captain's" first year out. In training

Prof. Sigbee used mental persuasion and found it worked nicely in the quiet of the home place. On the stage, however, he is a different person, and the noises in the wings and in front, later, when he becomes accustomed to theater noises, his owner hopes to make him do prodigious things. When a bunch of advance agents get together and start swapping stories it's an even money proposition that before the party breaks up the name of H. E. Root of Laramie, Wyo., will be mentioned. H. E. Root is the manager of the opera house in the thriving western city. The manager of an opera house is not as a general thing, a sufficiently important person for agents to waste their breath over, so it will be seen that this manager is out of the ordinary. H. E. in the first place is not He at all, but just what the first three letters of the name stand for—a HER.

Mrs. Helene E. Root, to be more explicit, once was manager of the opera house in Laramie, Wyo., and she, whom all agents take their hats off, and not merely in politeness, either, but as a tribute to a remarkable little woman, whose pluck, energy and intelligence have made her a success in a field rarely trodden by the gentle sex.

Mrs. Root took charge of the opera house in 1894. This does not mean that she hired a man to run things for her, but that she took entire charge of everything connected with the house. She was the boss, and the employees soon found that the "boss" was a stickler for the little details that are necessary for the successful operation of a place of amusement.

Under her energetic management it was not before the opera house, which was no better or worse than the average small town opera house, began to take the appearance of a real big city house. Many improvements were made, new seats and equipment installed, and from the old opera house emerged a first-class up-to-date theater. As Walter Duggan once expressed it, "the opera house was the chrysalis." This same standard has been maintained in the Laramie opera house to the present day.

When Mrs. Root took charge of the opera house she found that she had also automatically assumed the duties of city bill poster. Along about 1898 the knights of the brush decided it would be more patriotic to go to the Spanish-American war, and ask the sheets on the bill boards. Mrs. Root was, of course, forced to hire men to fill the places of the absent warriors, but what the green men didn't know about the game filled up the boards and left no space for the billings.

Undaunted, she grabbed the long-handled brush and the paste bucket, and, taking the green hands along, proceeded to do the work herself, instructing them in the art of putting up bills and posters. This was the start of Mrs. Root's career as an active billposter, and for many years she was a conspicuous figure on the streets of Laramie, clad in clothes suitable for the occupation, either putting up bills herself or superintending the work of her men. Today her bill posting plant is complete in every detail and one that will match up with many in the larger cities.

Mrs. Root was probably the first woman to take active charge of a theater and it is certain that she was the first woman at the head of a bill posting plant, and the only one that can get out and about "on up" when the occasion requires.

She is the best known and best liked person in Laramie, whose citizens take such pride in her business and who is so well known to the strangers just as sincerely as is the court house and the state university.

In conclusion, it might be added that in her younger days Mrs. Root was a well-known newspaper woman, working for a number of years on various Chicago dailies.

TERRIBLE ITCHING OF SKIN TROUBLE

Small Red and Yellow Spots on Leg. Covered with Dry Scale. Had to Walk Floor Nights. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment Cured.

R. F. D. No. 3, Clarkfield, Minn.—"My trouble was of long standing. It started with some small red and yellow spots about the size of a pin head on my leg and every morning there was dry scale on top covering the affected part and when those scales were falling off the itching was more than I could stand at times. The first year I did not mind it so much as it was only itching very badly at times, but the second year it advanced all around my leg and the itching was terrible. I tried to be careful to have my clothing around the affected part very loose. At night time I often happened to scratch the sores in my sleep. Then I had to stand up, get out of bed and walk the floor.

"Then I read the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I wrote for a sample and got it. To my surprise I was feeling relief after the second application. So I got a cake of Cuticura Soap and a fifty-cent box of Cuticura Ointment and when I had used them I was nearly over the itching. As I kept using box after box and it kept all up so it looked smooth and fine but I kept on with the Cuticura Soap for six weeks and the cure was complete." (Signed) S. O. Gordon, Nov. 20, 1912.

Cuticura Soap 25c. and Cuticura Ointment 50c. are sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card: Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston.

Different "Front."

A retired army officer was in his back garden one day when a tramp came round the end of the house. "I've been at the front," he began, "and—"

The old officer beamed at him as he interrupted to ask, "have you, indeed, my man? And were you wounded?"

"No," said the man, "no, sir, not exactly. But I couldn't make no one hear, so I come round to the back!"

ONE OF THE FIRST AMERICAN PHYSICIANS TO REALIZE THE GRAVE MISTAKE OF REMOVING THE APPENDIX.

FRENCH DOCTORS AND SCIENTISTS NOW REALIZE THAT GREAT HARM IS BEING DONE BY INDISCRIMINATE REMOVAL OF THE APPENDIX.

The following is taken from a recent issue of the Milwaukee Sentinel:

APPENDIX IS IMPORTANT.

French Doctor Declares Removal of Organ a Grave Mistake.

Paris, Dec. 27.—That the appendix is a much abused organ and of the utmost importance to man, was the gist of a paper read here before the academy of sciences. Submitted to the academy by Edmund Perrier, the thesis was the result of experiments conducted by Dr. R. Robinson, of the Museum of Natural History.

Dr. Robinson maintained that the appendix can not be removed without injury to the system because it discharges, under normal conditions, a liquid called "hormone" which aids the work of the intestines. "Hormone" is a name given any substance derived from an organ and able to stimulate a function of the body.

The removal of a healthy appendix, Dr. Robinson concluded, is a great mistake.

80 per cent of all Appendicitis operations are unnecessary.

Do not undergo an operation until you have consulted me.

I have saved scores from the operating table.

If you have been told that you have appendicitis, gall stones, rupture, gastritis, colitis, or other chronic diseases, in fairness to yourself, come and consult me and let me show you the proof that I have from hundreds of cured patients, that I have saved from surgical operations.

READ THE FOLLOWING LETTER.

SEVERE CASE OF APPENDICITIS CURED WITHOUT OPERATION.

Dr. N. Goddard, 121 Wisconsin St., Milwaukee, Wis.

"Dear Doctor: I take great pleasure in advising you that I have not had a day of sickness or pain since you finished treating me for appendicitis over a year ago.

"When I recall the suffering that I experienced previous to that time and the money that I wasted in fruitless efforts to find relief, including an expensive trip to the famous Lick Springs in Indiana, my gratitude for your rapid and complete cure is greater than I can express.

"I firmly believe that I would not be alive today but for your treatment, and I cannot understand how so many people submit to dangerous and painful operations without first consulting you with regard to their condition.

Yours Sincerely H. B. JAMES,
678 Maryland Ave.,
Milwaukee, Wis.

We are indeed fortunate in having such an able specialist as Dr. Goddard visit our city once a month. Many people here in this city owe their lives to his miraculous power to diagnose disease and once having determined the seat of the trouble effect a cure. Such a specialist treats hundreds of cases of appendicitis, gall stones and rupture, while doctors of general practice treat one and some times none. Naturally a man of Dr. Goddard's ability and experience effects cures that appear to be almost miraculous.

Dr. Goddard will be at the MYERS HOTEL, JANESVILLE, on Tuesday, March 24th. Hours 9:30 a. m. to 4:00 p. m.

Consultation is absolutely free and confidential. If you cannot come, write me for my book, "Modern Methods of Treating Chronic Disease Without Operation." It's yours for the asking. A postal will bring it.

ARE YOU OUT OF WORK?

"I was out of work three weeks, just about discouraged, when a friend of mine said to try a little ad in my home paper. To be truthful, I did not have much faith in the scheme; but thought I could afford to invest the nominal sum a want ad would cost. Consequently, I run an ad in our home paper stating my desire to obtain work."

"Say! In less than four hours from the time the paper was off the press I'd obtained a position! Fact! I had almost to pinch myself to see were it really true. I was to go to work the next morning. Think of it! I, who had walked this town over thinking the while that there was no chance for me here. Silly? Was I not? You see I did not know enough to advertise. This may sound incredulous, but really I did not. However, as soon as I followed the suggestion of a friend, I secured congenial work." Does this say anything to you? If in need of work, let your want be known through the next ad column of your own home paper. Try it!

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

A FRIEND of mine who is very much addicted to procrastination was being criticised for the fault. She defended herself with considerable heat and quite a little logic. Indeed she spoke so convincingly that her critic was silent, and, the third party was quite convinced. And then, having so successfully justified herself, she started up by remarking thoughtfully, "I wonder if I am a terrible procrastinator?" That remark was to me a key to the girl's character, which is one of unusual strength and sweetness. It made it evident that one of the reasons for her development was that she did not entirely reject all criticism in the facile way of the average person.

Criticism—something to defend yourself against as cleverly as possible and then forget. That is the definition of nine people out of ten. Probably they wouldn't admit it if you taxed them with it (any more than they would admit any criticism) but they prove that they hold that definition by living according to it. Of course part of the primal instinct of self-preservation is the instinct of self-defense, and that applies to criticism as well as to any other kind of an attack. Just as instinctively as a man lifts up his arm to ward off a blow on his body, so automatically and without stopping to think, the average person rears up a defense of explanation and self-justification against any blow of criticism aimed at his conduct.

But the thing that measures a man is what he does after he has defended himself. Does he immediately forget the criticism, or does he open the door of his mind to conviction, and even wonder if there may not be something in the criticism after all?

We need more of this "I wonder if I am" spirit. It is the foundation on which progress and growth are built. It is the drifting spirit.

And we need something more than the query made in a desultory it-can't-be-so fashion with our mind already convinced of the opposite. We need an honest, vigorous "I wonder if I am." We need to be able to call an unprejudiced jury to consider the matter and to present before it arguments for both sides as nearly unprejudiced as it is possible for weak human beings to make them.

Heart and Home Problems

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I have known a young man six months. He is grand! I like him very much—so much that I would do anything for him.

I knew he would benefit by it. When he is with me he seems to me to be a great deal for me. He is very good to me. The trouble is this: He never makes a definite engagement with me. He says "I will see me again," or something to that effect. I never know when to expect him; sometimes it is two weeks before he will call. He seems to take for granted he may call at any time.

If he meets me in town he always comes home with me. I am always so glad to see him that I have not the heart to reproach him, but I feel very much embarrassed when he comes and I am not prepared for him. But he generally passes it off as a joke and seems very much pleased to think he surprised me so. What do you think of him? Do you think he cares for me?

(2) I was invited to my girl friend's home to meet her beau. When I was ready to go home he said he would see me home. I objected and told him so, but he insisted. Do you think he did the proper thing? I had quite a distance to go. Do you think it will cause hard feelings? He has gone with her about six months and my friend twenty-three. Is he about the right age for me?

LUCIA.
(1) The young man undoubtedly has a very kindly feeling toward you, but I hardly think he is in love with you—yet. Let him come as he feels like it, and do not say anything about it. Many men call in this way and enjoy their visits, but would "shy off" if the girl expected them to call regularly.

(2) Your friend's beau simply wished to be polite to his sweetheart's girl friend. You did right to hesitate about accepting his escort. If there care a great deal is a next time, refuse it absolutely as a matter of loyalty to your girl friend.

(3) Yes.
Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of sixteen.

(1) I have a gentleman friend whom I adore. He used to ask me to go places, but my folks thought me too young. They do not care now. How can I let him know, as he still wants to go with me, but thinks my folks oppose it?

(2) There are two brothers. I like them both, but the one I like best never has asked me to go with him, but tells other boys I am very dear to him. The other boy is the one spoken of in the first question. Tell me what to do.

(3) There is a boy working at one of our neighbors. He seems to think lots of me. I do not care much for him, but I do not like to turn a cold shoulder to anyone. He wrote to me, but I told him I could not go with him, as he was a stranger. Did I do right?

(4) I have a friend who loves a boy who she thinks loves her, but when he is talking to me I don't think he does. Should I tell her so?

(5) Do you think it is right for a girl of sixteen to go with a boy if her parents do not care?

WINNIE.
(1) If he sees you going out with other boys he will come around and ask you why you do not go with him.

(2) Don't do anything. If he wants to take you out and has the price, he'll ask you quick enough.

(3) Yes.

(4) If you want her to stay your friend, don't say anything at all about it to her.

(5) I think, my dear little girl, that you are thinking altogether too much about boys. It is a good thing for a girl to have a boy friend, but when she thinks of every boy as a lover it is something else. However, if there is any particular boy whom your parents think fit company for you, there can hardly be any objection to your going about with him. But don't get mushy.

TROUBLES are seldom so bad as they appear. Put them in the strong sunlight of faith and it will surprise you to see how quickly the darkest spots fade out.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE DINNER TABLE.

Each month in the year brings its own artistic decorations, which may be varied in countless manner. When all things fail, as well as ingenious ideas, one may borrow from others who have given us their experience.

A most amusing way of placing guests is that of placing a baby picture of each guest for a place card. These may be obtained unbeknownst to the victim.

For a children's table, a log cabin made of colored stick candy, a rail fence and a walk inside of tiny sticks laid closely together. One's own taste will suggest ways of using this suggestion.

A fern ball suspended over the dinner table, with sprays of fern for decoration radiating from the center. A pink rose or two laid around on the cover makes a most attractive dinner table.

A novel idea for the finger bowl is to sprinkle a green spray of rose leaves and press on the bottom of the glass bowl, then have a few petals of the rose floating about in the water.

A novel way to arrange a shower for a "to be" bride, is to have a package or two brought in after each course, and each guest have the fun of helping to undo one for the honored guest.

A small ice tub to hold olives is both attractive and useful, for we all like our olives cold. Freeze ice in a tomato can, and when solid take it out and make a center to hold the olives by sinking a baking powder can filled with hot water in the center of it. Place the tub on a deep plate surrounded by green leaves and filled with olives.

When grapes are in season there is no more beautiful decoration for the table than various colored grapes in the foliage, arranged for a center piece.

For a simple little bouquet of dainties for a dinner table, a bunch of hellebore with a few pink roses in a slender glass vase cannot be equaled.

To Remove Egg Stains.
Egg stains on table linen will come out more readily if soaked in cold water before sending to the laundry.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.
To keep the silver teapot sweet when not in use put a lump of sugar in it.
When an article is scorched in ironing wet the spot with cold water and put it in the sun.
Kerosene oil is better than soap for removing finger marks from white paint.
If the feet are tender and become swollen, bathe them in alum water and wear loose shoes.

THE TABLE.
Orange Pie—Work one-fourth cupful of butter until creamy and add one cupful of granulated sugar gradually, while beating constantly. Add two eggs, well beaten, and one-half cupful of milk; then add one and two-thirds cupfuls of flour, mixed and sifted with two and one-half teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Beat thoroughly and turn into two pie tins. Bake in a moderate oven for twenty-five minutes. Put together with orange filling and spread the top with orange frosting.
Fig Souffle—To one-half pound of figs cut fine and stewed until tender and pulpy, add the beaten yolks of two eggs. Place in a pudding-dish and bake in the oven until the yolks are set, sufficient to then cover with a meringue made of the whites of the eggs and two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Let this brown, then remove to cool.
Fig Pie—Take one-half pound of figs and stew thoroughly adding when nearly done sugar to taste. When cool add the well-beaten yolks of two eggs. Fill this into the crust of pastry dough in a deep pie pan, and bake in a moderate oven until the yolks are set. Cover with a meringue, brown and serve.
Stuffed Eggs—Cut four hard-boiled eggs in halves crosswise; remove the yolks, mash and add two tablespoonfuls of grated cheese, one teaspoonful of vinegar, one-fourth teaspoonful of mustard and salt and cayenne to taste. Add enough melted butter to make the mixture of the right consistency to shape. Make in balls the size of the original yolks and re-fill the whites. Arrange on a serving dish and pour around one cup of white sauce, cover and reheat.
Tomato Soup—One can of tomatoes, one pint of water, twelve peppercorns, bit of bay leaf, four cloves, two teaspoonfuls of sugar, one teaspoonful of salt, one-eighth teaspoonful of soda, two tablespoonfuls of butter, three tablespoonfuls of flour, one slice of onion.
Cook the tomatoes, water, peppercorns, bay leaf, cloves, and sugar twenty minutes; strain; add the salt and soda. Brown the butter and flour cooked together, bind, and strain into the tureen.
Orange Filling—Mix thoroughly one-half cupful of sugar and two and one-half tablespoonfuls of flour; then add the grated rind of one-half orange, one-fourth cupful of orange juice, one-half tablespoonful of lemon juice, one egg, slightly beaten, and one teaspoonful of butter. Cook in a double boiler twelve minutes, stirring constantly. Cool slightly before spreading.
Orange Frosting—Add the grated rind of one orange to one tablespoonful

MADAME VAN RAPPAARD.

By Selene Armstrong Harmon.
Madame van Rappard, wife of the Netherlands minister to the United States, is a late acquisition to the diplomatic corps at Washington. She saw America for the first time last November, when, with her husband, she came to this country to reside over the Netherlands legation at the capital. Her husband is one of the most eminent diplomats in the service of his country, and has held a number of important posts, so that like most women of the corps, Madame van Rappard has lived in many capitals. She knows society in Brussels, St. Petersburg, Vienna, and Berlin, and has also resided in Tangier, indeed her heart probably turns often to the latter place of residence. In Morocco, the van Rappards had a large place with spacious grounds, and there Madame van Rappard kept horses, cows, donkeys, chickens, and seven monkeys. She is particularly devoted to animals and to every phase of outdoor life. She is particularly fond of fine horses, and enjoys nothing more than driving a spirited pair.

Born and educated in Holland, Madame van Rappard is a true type of the great Dutch lady. She is a family highly distinguished in a native country. The van Rappards have been members of the cabinet in Holland, and have held many positions of honor and trust there. The minister and Madame van Rappard have been cordially welcomed in Washington, and their young daughter, Ernestine, has gone extensively into society during the present season. In addition to French, German and Dutch, all members of the family speak English with ease. Madame van Rappard learned the language from her governess when a child. The minister and Madame van Rappard also have a son, Anthon, who is connected with one of the large banks of Canada.

EVERYDAY TALKS FOR EVERYDAY PEOPLE

BY FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.

Last summer a young girl, growing tired of school, decided to quit! As this was the very last thing her widowed mother wanted, her to do, many were the arguments that they had. The girl was well bred, courteous, got on well through all the grades, entered high school with splendid standing. Still, after six months in the freshman class she was clamoring to leave.

She finally did leave. Secured a place in her home town where the hours were long and pay short. She had no special training, so she was not qualified to secure better pay than she was getting. She had stood high through the grades in her studies, but that did not seem to help her in the store. She knew how to obey, but she lacked initiative.

She was delighted at first with the novelty of it all, with the earning of her own money, the ability to buy just when and what she wished as long as her money lasted. For two years she stayed in that store, then, being dissatisfied with her salary, and seeing no chance of getting more, she resigned. She had to go, more, she was older, her needs were more; she was a bright, smart girl, as most girls are, but she had received no special training.

Her mother tried to induce her to go to summer school then in progress, thinking that she might return to school. The mother herself was a hard-working woman, toiling daily to keep their little home going, but she wanted the girl to have an education—a chance to procure one herself had been denied her. She secured work in a factory, where the wages were better than in the store, but where the conditions were much worse.

Two years of this and she was eighteen, tired of her work, wanting something better, yet lacking the training to get it. What she had earned for the past four years she had also spent. In fact, she had spent as fast as she earned. She had nothing to show for her four years of work but clothes. As they had a trick of going out of fashion, and she would not be guilty of wearing anything that could be listed as even a bit back in style, you could not say that her assets were very valuable.

Now, always in the four years that had passed in such a fruitless way for the girl, the mother grieved in secret for the way her daughter was frittering her time and money. She remonstrated with her in a mild, gentle way. The daughter was strong-willed, self-willed; she easily won over the mother in every point.

Well, what would you have done with a girl like this? This is where the vocational schools step in as a real aid. How much do you know about the new vocational schools?

mother. She ain't seen my face for ten long years." "I believe you. Why don't you give it a wash?"

Fashion Reigns

The fashion of the present day demands that the complexion of the well-groomed woman shall be clear and of snowy whiteness. To possess this necessary requirement invest at once in a bottle of

GOURAUD'S Oriental Cream

Now the Herpicide claims and Herpicide advertising have been freely copied by the manufacturers of other scalp remedies. Bear in mind too, that during this change of front the remedies themselves have not been changed, simply the claims for them. Here is the point. Why should you experiment with something, claimed to be as good as Herpicide when genuine Herpicide, the Original Germ-Remedy, may be purchased in every drug and department store in Janesville.

Fifteen years ago Newbro's Herpicide was the only germ remedy for dandruff in America. At that time, both the remedy and the theory were edited. But since then Herpicide has achieved an almost marvelous success and the story of its astonishing merit has penetrated to every corner of the globe.

Where He Might Have Been. One of the incidents of Father Bernard Vaughan's tour in the states was an encounter with a suffragette. The haughty lady approached the English visitor and said: "And where would you be, pray, but for a woman?" "Madame," came the reply, "on a sultry evening like this I should be eating ice cream under an apple-tree in the Garden of Eden."

"Nevertheless," said Vivian firmly, "I for one shall not condemn her until I have heard her story."

"And So You Are the One We Have Been Hunting for All These Months."

heard. I mean to be as fair to her as Sara has been. It shall not be said that all the Wrاندalls are smaller than Sara Gooch!"

"My child—" began her father incredulously. His jaw dropped suddenly. His daughter's shot had landed squarely in the heart of the Wrاندall pride.

"If she has anything to say"—said Mrs. Wrاندall, waving Booth aside and sinking stiffly into her chair. Her husband sat down. Their jaws set hard.

"Thank you, Vivian," said Sara, surprised in spite of herself. "You are nobler than I—"

"Please don't thank me, Sara," said Vivian icily. "I was speaking for Miss Castleton."

Sara flushed. "I suppose it is useless to ask you to be fair to Sara Gooch, as you choose to call me."

"Do you feel in your heart that we still owe you anything?"

"Enough of this, Vivian," spoke up her father harshly. "If Miss Castleton desires to speak, we will listen to her. I must advise you, Miss Castleton, that the extraordinary disclosures made by my daughter-in-law do not lessen your culpability. We do not insist on this confession from you. You deliver it at your own risk. I want to be fair with you. If Mr. Carroll is your counsel, he may advise you now to refuse to make a statement."

Mr. Carroll bowed slightly in the general direction of the Wrاندalls. "I have already advised Miss Castleton to state the case fully and completely to you, Mr. Wrاندall. It was I who originally suggested this—well, what you might call a private trial for her. I am firmly convinced that when you have heard her story, you, as her judges, will acquit her of the charge of murder. Moreover, you will be content to let your own verdict end the matter, sparing yourselves the shame and ignominy of having her story told in a criminal court for the delectation of an eager but somewhat implacable world."

"Your language is extremely unpleasant, Mr. Carroll," said Mr. Wrاندall coldly.

"I meant to speak kindly, sir."

"Do you mean, sir, that we will let the matter rest after hearing her?"

"That is precisely what I mean, Mr. Wrاندall. You will not consider her guilty of a crime. Please bear in mind this fact: but for Sara and Miss Castleton you would not have known the truth. Miss Castleton could not be convicted in a court of justice. Nor will she be convicted here this evening, in this little court of ours."

"Miss Castleton is not on trial," interposed Sara calmly. "I am the offender. She has already been tried and proved innocent."

Leslie, in his impatience, tapped sharply on the table with his seal ring. "Please let her tell the story. Permit me to say, Miss Castleton, that you will not find the Wrاندalls as harsh and vindictive as you may have been led to believe."

Mrs. Wrاندall passed her hand over her eyes. "To think that we have been friendly to this girl all these—"

"Calm yourself, my dear," said her husband, after a glance at his son and daughter, a glance of unspeakable helplessness. He could not understand them.

As Hetty arose, Mrs. Wrاندall senior lowered her eyes and not once did she look up during the recital that followed. Her hands were lying limply in her lap, and she breathed heavily, almost stertorously. The younger Wrاندalls leaned forward with their clear, unwavering gaze fixed on the earnest face of the young Englishwoman who had slain their brother.

"You have heard Sara accuse herself," said the girl slowly, dispassionately. "The shock was no greater to you than it was to me. All that she has said is true, and yet I— I would so much rather she had left herself unarraigned. We were agreed that I should throw myself on your mercy."

Mr. Carroll said that you were fair and just people, that you would not condemn me under the circumstances. But that Sara should seek to take the blame is—"

"Alas, my dear, I am to blame," said Sara, shaking her head. "But for me your story would have been told months ago, the courts would have cleared you, and all the world would have execrated my husband for the thing he did—my husband and your son, Mrs. Wrاندall—whom we both loved. God believe me, I think I loved him more than all of you put together!"

She sat down abruptly and buried her face in her arms on the edge of the table.

"If I could only induce you to forgive her," began Hetty, throwing out her hands to the Wrاندalls, only to be met by a gesture of repugnance from the grim old man.

"Your story, Miss Castleton," he said hoarsely.

"From the beginning, if you please," added the lawyer quietly. "Leave out nothing."

Clearly, steadily and with the utmost sincerity in her voice and manner, the girl began the story of her life. She passed hastily over the earlier periods, frankly exposing the unhappy conditions attending her home life, her subsequent activities as a performer on the London stage after Colonel Castleton's defection; the few months devoted to posing for Hawright, the painter, and later on her engagement as governess in the wealthy Budlong family. She devoted some time and definiteness to her first encounter with Challis Wrاندall on board the west-bound steamer, an incident that came to pass in a perfectly natural way. Her deck chair stood next to his, and he was not slow in making himself agreeable. It did not occur to her till long afterwards that he deliberately had traded positions with an elderly gentleman who occupied the chair on the first day out. Before the end of the voyage they were very good friends.

"When we landed in New York, he assisted me in many ways. Afterwards, on learning that I was not to go to California, I called him up on the telephone to explain my predicament. He urged me to stay in New York; he guaranteed that there would be no difficulty in securing a splendid position in the east. I had no means of knowing that he was married. I accepted him for what I thought him to be: a genuine American gentleman. They are supposed to be particularly considerate with women. His conduct toward me was beyond reproach. I have never known a man who was so courteous, so gentle. To me, he was the most fascinating man in the world. No woman could have resisted him, I am sure of that."

She shot a quick, appealing glance at Booth's hard-set face. Her lip trembled for a second.

"I fell madly in love with him," she went on resolutely. "I dreamed of him, I could hardly wait for the time to come when I was to see him. He never came to the wretched little lodging house I have told you about. I— I met him outside. One night he told me that he loved me, loved me passionately. I— I said that I would be his wife. Somehow it seemed to me that he regarded me very curiously for a moment or two. He seemed to be surprised, uncertain. I remember that he laughed rather queerly. It did not occur to me to doubt him. One day he came for me, saying that he wanted me to see the little apartment he had taken, where we were to live after we were married. I went with him. He said that if I liked it, I could move in at once, but I would not consent to such an arrangement. For the first time I began to feel that everything was not as it should be. I— I remained in the apartment but a few minutes. The next day he came to me, greatly excited and more demonstrative than ever before, to say that he had arranged for a quiet, jolly little wedding, up in the country. Strangely enough, I experienced a queer feeling that all was not as it should be, but his eagerness, his persistence, dispelled the small doubt that had begun even then to shape itself. I consented to go with him on the next night to an inn out in the country, where a college friend who was a minister of the gospel would meet us, driving over from his parish a few miles away. I said that I preferred to be married in a church. He laughed and said it could be arranged when we got to the inn and had talked it over with the minister. Still uneasy, I asked why it was necessary to employ secrecy. He told me that his family were in Europe and that he wanted to surprise them by giving them a daughter who was actually related to an English nobleman. The family had been urging him to marry a stupid but rich New York girl and he—oh, well, he uttered a great deal of nonsense about my beauty, my charm, and all that sort of thing."

She paused for a moment. No one spoke. Her audience of judges, with the exception of the elder Mrs. Wrاندall, watched her as if fascinated. Their faces were almost expressionless. With a perceptible effort, she resumed her story, narrating events that carried it up to the hour when she walked into the little upstairs room at Burton's inn with the man who was to be her husband.

"I did not see the register at the inn. I did not know till afterwards that we were not booked. Once upstairs, I refused to remove my hat or my veil or my coat until he brought his friend to me. He pretended to be very angry, over his friend's failure to be there beforehand, as he had promised. He ordered a supper served in the room. I did not eat anything. Somehow I was beginning to understand, vaguely of course, but surely—and bitterly, Mr. Wrاندall. Suddenly he threw off the mask."

"He coolly informed me that he knew the kind of a girl I was. I had been on the stage. He said it was no use trying to work the marriage game on him. He was too old a bird and too wise to fall for that. Those were his words. I was horrified, stunned. When I began to cry out in my fury, he laughed at me and swore he would marry me even at that if it were not for the fact that he was already married. I tried to leave the room. He held me. He kissed me a hundred times before I could break away. I— I tried to scream."

A little later on, when I was absolutely desperate, I— I snatched up the knife. There was nothing else left for me to do. I struck at him. He fell back on the bed. . . . I stole out of the house—oh, hours and hours afterward it seemed to me. I cannot tell you how long I stood there watching him. . . . I was crazed by fear. I—"

Redmond Wrاندall held up his hand. "We will spare you the rest, Miss Castleton?" He said, his voice hoarse and unnatural. "There is no need to say more."

"You—you understand? You do believe me?" she cried.

He looked down at his wife's bowed head, and received no sign from her; then at the white, drawn faces of his children. They met his gaze and he read something in their eyes.

"I—I think your story is so convincing that we—we could not endure the shame of having it repeated to the world."

"I—I cannot ask you to forgive me, sir. I only ask you to believe me," she murmured brokenly. "I—I am sorry it had to be. God is my witness that there was no other way."

Mr. Carroll came to his feet. There were tears in his eyes.

"I think, Mr. Wrاندall, you will now appreciate my motives in—"

"Pardon me, Mr. Carroll, if I suggest that Miss Castleton does not require any defense at present," said Mr. Wrاندall stiffly. "Your motives were doubtless good. Will you be so good as to conduct us to a room where we may—may be alone for a short while?"

There was something tragic in the man's face. His son and daughter arose as if moved by an instinctive realization of a duty, and perhaps for the first time in their lives were submissive to an influence they had never quite recognized before—a father's unalterable right to command. For once in their lives they were meek in his presence. They stepped to his side and stood waiting, and neither of them spoke.

Mr. Wrاندall laid his hand heavily on his wife's shoulder. She started, looked up rather vacantly, and then arose without assistance. He did not make the mistake of offering to assist her. He knew too well that to question her strength now would be but to invite weakness. She was strong. He knew her well.

Dinner Stories

He was full of zeal for the temperance cause, and was holding a series of lectures in a workmen's hall. But the audience was very unkind, and kept interrupting. So much so that at last he hired an expert fighter to keep order. That night the orator contrasted the picture of home life with the squalor of drunkenness.

"What is it we want when we return home from our daily toil?" he asked.

"What do we want to ease our burden, to gladden our hearts, to bring smiles to our faces and joyous songs to our lips?"

He paused for effect, and in the silence could be heard the voice of the keeper of the peace:

"Mind," he said, "the first bloke that says 'beer,' out he goes with a bang."

A Five-Room Bungalow—By John Henry Newson Home of Character" No. 195

In this bungalow the foundation, porch piers and chimney are built of chocolate brick and the siding is ordinary siding painted a warm brown and the shingles are stained brown. The arrangement of the porch across the front in connection with the main roof lines presents a pleasing and home-like appearance.

The gables have windows lighting the attic space, which is reached through a manhole in the connecting hall between the bedrooms. This manhole has a balanced stairway that is let down from the ceiling, in which way storage space is of easy access and use.

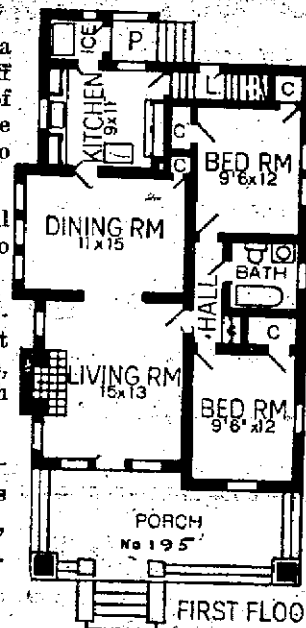

The first floor provides for six rooms and a bath, with entrance to the sleeping quarters off the living room. The dining room opens off of the living room, and the kitchen is located at the rear of the house, with grade landing, stairs to cellar, ice room and kitchen porch.

The chimney to the fireplace on the side wall of the living room is exposed and adds greatly to the effect of the exterior.

A bungalow of this size (24x37 feet) and design can be built, with basement, heating plant and complete equipment for a northern climate, for from $2500 to $3000. As built in the south and west it would cost considerably less.

Any Gazette reader who desires further information concerning No. 195 should address "John Henry Newson, Homes of Character Dept., The Gazette." There will be no charge for Mr. Newson's answers.
